Subject: Why Say Anything?

Paul was told on his way to Rome that all those sailing with him would be saved. If he knew this WHY did he say anything when the mariners sought to flee out of the ship? According to some people's thinking he should have been quiet.

Even though God had told him all were to be saved, Paul realized that it was going to be through his speaking that God was going to do it. The same is true for those being saved today. We are not quiet just because we know that God is going to save those who are chosen. It is through us that He does it.

"It is through the stupidity of the heralding" that He does it (1 Cor. 1:21).

If you do not want to be used as an implement of God this will not hinder Him. Paul wanted to be used by God and said, "I am enduring all because of those who are chosen, that they also may be happening upon salvation which is in Christ Jesus with glory eonian." (2 Tim. 2:10).
